

VOTE FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

THIS IS A PIVOTAL ELECTION FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

We need a government that's serious about real governance reform — one that will reverse the disastrous "Job Ready Graduates" cuts, protect independent public research, and manage international education fairly.

The Coalition is heading in the opposite direction.

They've already signalled plans to cut international student enrolments, politically interfere with university research, and roll back key workplace rights like the right to disconnect. Every time they've held office, the Coalition has slashed higher education funding — and they'll do it again if given the chance.

While everyday Australians struggle with the cost of living, big business is making record profits — and now, they want even more. They're pushing to weaken workers' rights, making it harder to get a pay rise.

Peter Dutton wants to be Prime Minister — and he's promised to deliver for big business by scrapping the workplace rights that protect Australian workers.

Let's not forget: under the last Coalition government, wages didn't grow for ten years.
